TRUMAN VETOES INCOME TAX SLASH

4 FATAL PLANE CRASHES BOOST TOLL TO 146

Truman Appoints Board of Inquiry as Casualty List Since May 29 Soars.

By The Associated Press

Four fatal airplane crashes occurred over the weekend, one an airliner disaster that took a toll of 50 dead and raised the number killed in commercial plane crashes since May 29 to 146—49 more than died in domestic airline accidents all last year.

Continuation of the air accidents prompted President Truman yesterday to appoint a five-man board to inquire into all phases of air safety.

Last Friday, the 13th, a Capital airlines plane carrying 47 passengers and a crew of three crashed into a granite mountainside near Keys Gap, W. Va., killing all aboard.

Just two weeks before a United Airlines plane crashed while attempting to takeoff at La Guardia field, in New York City, killing 43. The following night 53 persons died in the crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit, Md.

12 Killed Yesterday

At least 12 persons died yesterday when an Army B-29 bomber, on a training mission, struck the side of Hawk's mountain near Springfield, Vt. On leaving Tucson, Ariz., Saturday, the plane carried 15, but Army officials said the passenger list was changed at the greater Pittsburgh area. The 12 bodies found were burned so badly as to make identification difficult.

In the other crashes this past weekend, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Wolf of Dayton, O., died when their private plane fell into the Atlantic ocean near Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Capt. William H. Greenleaf, Connecticut Air National Guard officer, died in the crash of his P-47 fighter at Windsor Locks, Conn.

Another major disaster was narrowly averted at Fort Knox, Ky., when an Army C-47 transport plane carrying 22 crashed and burned shortly after taking off at Godman field yesterday.

Sergeant Saves Crew

Staff Sgt. Curtis M. Green, credited with calmly leading the others to the escape hatch, was the only one injured seriously. He suffered a dislocated hip and burns on the arm and neck. Twenty others were treated for minor injuries.

James M. Landis, civil aeronautics board chairman, who was named by the President to head the five-man inquiry panel, called its first meeting for tomorrow.

Landis discussed aviation in his commencement address to the Brooklyn college graduating class yesterday, telling the New York students he had chosen the subject "despite the fact that in these last two weeks it has been undergoing the most tragic, and saddest and the most disturbing period of its entire growth."

President Truman, Landis said, wanted "action" and frequent interim recommendations from the air safety group.

"I think that's a very good idea—I like the approach that the President has given it," Landis said.

Nab Man Molesting Woman Watchman

Joe H. Anderson, 32, of the New York Central camp cars was arrested Sunday at about 6:30 p. m. by city police at the Kenton avenue railroad crossing, where he was attempting to break into a watchman's shanty, where a woman on duty as crossing watchman had taken refuge, police said. Officers said she ran into the shanty after Anderson made advances toward her. Police happened along at the time and arrested him.

He was charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct in municipal court this morning. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

Marion Driver Figures In Fatal Car Accident

Dwight Adams, 42, of Columbus, was killed instantly at 12:40 a. m. today about 15 miles east of Columbus when he was struck by an automobile driven by Quentin Walker of 245 Windsor street. Mr. Walker was exonerated after questioning at the Hebron state highway patrol substation.

Patrolmen said Adams had parked his automobile on Route 40 near the village of Etna and was crossing the road at the time of the accident. He had been arrested for speeding earlier in the evening and paid a fine after appearing in mayor's court at Kirkersville.

FLOOD CRISIS IN IOWA EBBING

Des Moines River Reaches Crest, Moves On; Other Streams Receding.

By The Associated Press

KEOSAUQUA, Ia., June 16—The flood crest of the Des Moines river reached this little town early today, caused damage in the business district, and moved downstream toward the junction with the rising Mississippi near Keokuk.

Throughout Iowa the flood crisis had eased at nearly all points.

At Ottumwa, 30 miles upstream from here, the industrial city's 32,000 residents rode out the brunt of the flood yesterday without panic and with no reported loss of life.

At Cedar Rapids in eastern Iowa, meanwhile, the Cedar river crested at 18.25 feet—highest since 1933—but did no major damage.

The Keosauqua flood crest of 25.14 feet was recorded at 4 a. m. This was the highest since 1903 and a shade above last week's peak of 25.13.

The flood inundated the entire business district of this town of 1,000 population to depths ranging from four to nine feet, Major Norwood Teal said. The telephone office was isolated, and opera-

LIQUOR HEAD COFALL QUITS AS OF TODAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today announced the resignation of State Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall of Cleveland.

The resignation was effective today.

The governor said Director Cofall gave "business reasons" in his formal letter.

Cofall is president of National Solvent Co. of Cleveland.

The governor did not immediately announce a successor.

Cofall took office with the Herbert administration Jan. 13.

His selection as enforcement chief, William J. Kelch, a Cleveland police officer, resigned several weeks ago.

Well publicized was Director Cofall's speech before a state liquor association convention, during which he described "a man with a black mustache" who was said to have offered Cofall $100,000 to allow the operation of slot machines in Ohio taverns.

This man, whose identity Cofall said he did not know, was never apprehended, but he figured in several subsequent events.

Cofall also participated in the attorney general's investigation of private liquor permits in Cleveland and northern Ohio, one of the big liquor stories in several years.

It Takes a Hunt But Thief Finds $20 Hidden in Laundry

Burglars entered Sam Lee's Chinese hand laundry at 178 North Main street sometime between noon Sunday and 2:25 a. m. today, police reported.

Lee told police he had missed a total of $20 and some packages containing laundry. He had the money concealed in several different places around the room, police were told. Lee said $14 was taken from the cash drawer, $5 from a cigar box and $1 from another box. No suspects have been found.

Lee said he thought the thief gained entrance by using a skeleton key in the front door lock.

BOSTON MAYOR FAILS TO WIN 2ND REVIEW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The supreme court today refused for the second time to review the mail fraud conviction of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston.

The refusal apparently cleared the way for a renewal of justice department efforts to put the 72-year-old mayor in jail to begin serving his sentence of six to 18 months.

Curley, however, was reported ill in a Scituate, Mass., hospital. He was taken there last Friday suffering from what his physician described as hypertension induced by arterio-sclerosis.

The mail fraud charge resulted from war-time operations of Engineers Group, Inc., of this city. The government charged the firm realized about $60,000 by falsely representing that it was able to obtain war contracts. In addition to the sentence Curley was fined $1,000.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Galion Man Taken to Hospital After Auto Collision in Morrow County.

Two automobile accidents resulting in injuries to two persons, and two arrests occurring during the weekend were reported today by state patrolmen.

Clarence Merwine, 46, of near Galion suffered internal injuries Saturday at 12:25 p. m. when his car figured in a collision with one driven by Richard Eugene Mathews, 18, of near Mt. Gilead. The accident happened at the intersection of Morrow county roads 545 and 38, about five miles south of Galion. Patrolmen reported both cars were traveling west on Route 38 when Mathews attempted to pass the Merwine car as the latter started to make a left turn at the intersection.

The Merwine car overturned in the road and the car driven by Mathews was forced into the ditch. Both cars, badly damaged were taken to a Galion garage. Merwine was taken to Galion City hospital.

Mrs. Iza McWilliams suffered minor head lacerations when the car in which she was riding, driven by her husband Glenn McWilliams, '47, of near Mt. Gilead collided with a car driven by Donold V. Young, 21, of Mt. Gilead at 11:45 a. m. yesterday just east of Mt. Gilead on Morrow county roads 93 and 20. Patrolmen reported Young was driving south on route 20 and the McWilliams car was westbound on route 93 when they collided at the intersection. The cars were taken to a Mt. Gilead garage.

Joseph E. Sexten, 34, of Champaign, Ill., pleaded guilty when charged with speeding on route 30-N at 4:20 p. m. Saturday and

New Marshall Plan To Either Unite Europe or Increase Gap

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Secretary of State Marshall and his top advisers have now worked out an approach to what they consider twin threats of chaos and Communism in Europe.

Their program will either unite much of that continent by this year's end or divide it worse than ever before—depending on Russian reaction. Diplomatic officials say that if Russia holds to her refusal to cooperate it almost certainly will force the organization of western Europe alone into a sort of economic federation. That would mean Russia and her eastern bloc of states would be cut off from any substantial American help.

Hopes It Won't Happen

Marshall is reported to hope this will not happen, that Russia will go along or at least permit some of the dominated countries to go along with the American proposal for some kind of economic federation of Europe. His policy apparently is one of an "open door" to Russian cooperation: if the door is to be closed, Russia will have to close it.

However, the probability that she will do so is considered here to be very great. Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, still on [illegible] acted to cut the people off economically from the community of Europe, curtail their productivity, and to bind the rmto exclusive economic relations with the Soviet Union."

Truman Bonapass Three

While President Truman did not comment directly on the problems involved, he also took occasion over the weekend to denounce three of the regimes in eastern Europe, those of Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. He said they "not only have disregarded the will of the majority of the people but have resorted to measures of oppression against them."

At the same time Mr. Truman pointed the efforts of the Soviet [illegible] with, he said, "are rebuilding with huge [illegible] and [illegible] the peoples enslaved [illegible]

700 SHIPS TIED UP IN U.S. AS SEAMEN STRIKE

Union Head Says 1,150 Will Be Affected Unless Owners Knuckle Under.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—Nearly 700 ships were tied up in United States ports today, NMU President Joseph Curran reported, in a work stoppage under a union "no contract, no work" policy.

The president of the NMU predicted that if union demands were not met by ship owners 1,150 ships would be affected in a few days by the dispute in which four other CIO unions are involved.

Although Curran did not detail the ports and the number of ships in each, he said 500 of the nearly 700 ships were in east coast ports.

More than 2,000 ships would be affected, Curran claimed, if current negotiations between the unions and tanker companies failed. Tankers are not affected by the present stoppage.

No Pickets at Docks

Although no pickets showed up at piers the work stoppage ordered by Curran went into effect shortly after the expiration of contracts at midnight yesterday.

The unions were insistent that no strike had been called but that the men would not work without a contract. The seamen were ordered to remain on board ships "as long as possible" and a union spokesman said that if they were ordered off, a "lockout" would be in effect.

Union ports agents said 150 ships were affected in New York harbor, 40 in Philadelphia, 40 in Baltimore, four in Boston and one in Portland, Me. In Houston, approximately 1,000 men quit work shortly after the midnight deadline and in Seattle, 12,000 Puget Sound waterfront workers were ordered to quit their jobs.

West Coast Parleys

On the west coast, contract extension was agreed on by shipowners and the CIO ship clerks, checkers and supercargoes, an affiliate of the longshoremen, and "tentative" meetings were scheduled for later in the day with the cooks and stewards and the ACA.

A West Coast CIO Maritime committee spokesmen, however, said that "similar to the east coast pattern as announced, the West Coast unions which are locked out will have their members remain on the jobs."

Sees Straying From Old Code

Kenyon Graduates Told U. S. No Longer Practices Former Ideals.

By The Associated Press

GAMBIER, O., June 16—The dean emeritus of Princeton university declared today that as nationalists Americans "have violated the moral code in which we once believed as men."

In a prepared address to 98 Kenyon college graduates, largest class in the schools history, Dean Christian Gauss asserted:

"x x x Modern man x x x must either surrender his older ideals, and this means the ideals of 1776, or he must fundamentally reconstruct the nationalistic state."

"U. S. Not Christian"

American history, he said, "is frankly unChristian" because it sets up citizens of the United States "upon a higher pedestal as a class and nation."

Dean Gauss pointed out that only two civilians were injured at the three-day battle of Gettysburg, and that through their own recklessness, but pointed out:

"In this recent war, it was not only Germans and Russians and Japanese who felt called upon to violate this ancient ban, but Americans as well.

"At Hiroshima and Nagasaki, we bear the responsibility for the deaths of nearly 200,000 with a heavy majority of women and children."

Total wars, he said, "are wars waged between modern nationalistically organized states."

Assembly Quits After Spending Most Money in Ohio's History

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—Ohio legislators caught up on sleep today—and perhaps dreamed of dollar signs—after concluding the biggest spending session in state history by working from 10 a. m. Saturday until 7:22 a. m. yesterday.

The Republican dominated 97th general assembly allotted $880,000,000 since it convened Jan. 6—sum millions in excess of any previous biennial appropriations.

An economy-minded house wrestled for months with the Daniels-Cramer school bill to increase state aid to public schools, and on the final day a compromise version of the measure was approved providing $86,000,000 a year, $27,000,000 more than last year. Teacher pay boosts of from $600 to $800 annually are expected to result.

Labor Curb Enacted

An attempt to outlaw the closed shop failed, but the most drastic labor-control legislation in the state's history was enacted, some of it over the objections of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, who wanted to wait for completion of federal labor curbs by congress.

Public employes were prohibited from striking; secondary boycotts, jurisdictional and sit-down strikes, and "featherbedding" were outlawed in the new bills, and pickets were limited to a "reasonable number and ordered not to interfere by force with workers entering a struck plant."

Other work by the session included enactment of:

The state's first strip-mine control program.

Salary increases totaling millions of dollars for legislators, state officials and employes, judges and county officials.

Payroll Tax Cut

A reduction in employers' annual payroll tax for unemployment compensation by approximately $27,000,000.

A proposal for a $300,000,000 bonus to World War II veterans to be submitted to voters in November and providing an individual maximum bonus of $400.

A $32,000,000-a-year appropriation for local governments, including hard-pressed large cities up to $11,000,000 from the annual allocation in the previous biennium.

Supporters of a fair employment practices commission and a toll-financed system of turnpikes similar to Pennsylvania's lost their causes.

Except for lunch and dinner recesses Saturday and a few "five-minute breaks" which included songfests and a midnight ice cream party, the legislators worked uninterruptedly in their final session of nearly 22 hours.

Hold Herbert Responsible

Most of the legislative leaders were severely critical of the executive's hands-off policy and are prepared to hold him responsible if the legislative program they enacted backfires on the Republican party.

Notwithstanding the all-time high money allotments, Chairman Paul H. Ballard of the house finance committee said the state would be approximately $4,000,000 in the black at the end of the biennium.

The general operational budget carried approximately $547,000,000 in which $439,000,000 came from general revenues and the remainder represented federal subsidies and rotaries.

More than $71,000,000 new money was alloted for capital expenditures at the state universities, welfare institutions and other projects, while about $60,000,000 alloted for similar purposes two years ago but not spent was reapportioned for the same purposes.

The labor control legislation prohibits secondary boycotts,

JUDGE DENIES WALLACE BAN

Refuses Plea To Stop Speech in Government-Owned Theater.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — Federal Justice James M. Proctor refused today to bar Henry A. Wallace from speaking at the government - owned Watergate amphitheater here tonight.

The judge rejected a petition from the American Anti-Communist association, headed by Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis), that he order Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug to deny Wallace use of the Watergate.

Krug's department has jurisdiction over the Watergate, an outdoor theater in park lands near the Lincoln memorial.

Not Subject for Court

"These matters do not fall within the judicial realm," Justice Proctor commented in dismissing the petition.

O'Konski left the court building with a declaration to reporters that he would take the matter up in congress.

"I am going to tell the membership of congress that until our government takes a truly anti-Communist stand here at home, that we in congress should refuse to appropriate any money to fight Communism abroad," he said.

Wallace, who is crusading against the Truman foreign policy, is expected to discuss his views on peace and perhaps also clarify his position in the 1948 presidential campaign.

NEWEST AUTO MAKER AWAITS SEC ACTION

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 16 — Preston Tucker, 44-year-old president of the nation's "infant" auto manufacturing firm, sat on the sidelines today as the securities and exchange commission began a public investigation of the Tucker Corp.'s proposed stock sale to the public.

The commission has accused the 11-month-old Chicago corporation of making false statements and omitting certain material facts in a registration statement filed last May 6 covering 4,000,000 shares of class A common stock.

Less than an hour before the hearing began, the company gave the SEC an amended registration statement and J. T. Walsh, company counsel, declared as the hearing opened, "we believe the amended statement should and will answer all question the commission asked to have answered."

ACT VIRTUALLY KILLS CHANCE OF CUT IN '47

"Wrong Kind at Wrong Time" President Tells Congress in Message.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—President Truman vetoed today the $4,000,000,000 tax reduction bill, virtually killing any possibility of a cut in income taxes this year.

The Republican-dominated congress will vote on whether to pass the bill over the veto, but backers of the legislation conceded they saw no chance for success.

It requires a two-thirds vote to enact a law over the President's disapproval.

Leaders said that can be mustered in the house, which will vote tomorrow, but not in the senate.

"Risky Benefits"

In a message to congress, Mr. Truman said the bill "offers dubious, ill-apportioned, and risky benefits at the expense of a sound tax.

The President declared it offers "the wrong kind of tax reduction, at the wrong time," he added:

"Proposals for tax reduction must be examined in the light of sound and carefully related fiscal and economic policies. Unless they are consistent with the demands of such policies, they should not be approved."

Reaction from the bill's backers was immediate and, for the most part, caustic.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), author of the measure and chairman of the house ways and means committee, issued a statement saying "the President's suggesting that we wait for tax reduction until next year is nothing but cold-blooded politics." Knutson's obvious reference was to the fact that 1948 is a presidential election year.

"Doesn't Understand"

He declared that by the veto the President demonstrated "a sad lack of understanding of the needs of our economy."

Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, said in a statement that "Mr. Truman has committed his administration to continued support of the tax and tax, spend and spend, and elect and elect philosophy of the now discredited New Deal."

It was the second time in history that a President has vetoed a tax bill—and the first time one providing a tax cut has been vetoed.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt vetoed a tax bill in 1944. The bill President Truman vetoed provided for reductions ranging from 10.5 to 30 per cent in individual income taxes, beginning July 1.

Time To Come Later

He told the congress members the time for tax reduction "will come when general inflationary pressures have decreased and the structure of prices is on a more stable basis than now prevails."

"How long it will take for this point to be reached is impossible to predict," Mr. Truman said. "Clearly, it has not been reached as yet. Tax reduction now would add to, rather than correct, maladjustments in the economic structure."

The President also cited this nation's "great responsibilities for international relief and rehabilitation that have an important bearing on our efforts to secure lasting peace."

Arguing against cutting taxes while the debt is high, the President asserted:

"A time of high employment and high prices, wages, and profits, such as the present, calls for a surplus in government revenue over expenditures and the application of all or much of this surplus to the reduction of the public debt.

Confidence of Public

He continued:

"Continuing public confidence in government finances depends upon such a policy. If the government does not reduce the public debt during [illegible] periods, there is little the prospect of [illegible] reduction at any [illegible] period. The country would, as a result, be in a position [illegible]

World's Top Seal Catcher Retires at 94

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 16—The greatest salesman of untrained seals in history is retiring at the ripe age of 94.

"I'm having a little trouble with my heart," said peppery Capt. George M. McGuire, who is the Henry Ford of the live seal business. I guess I had better take it easy for a while."

Hal Boyle

For 42 years the white-mustached little man has boasted: "I supply the world with sea lions," and he holds a practical international monopoly of the industry. He has caught and shipped more than 2,500 California sea lions — a variety of eared seals—to zoos and circuses throughout the world.

"I'm selling off the business now to my nephew and putting my money in G-bonds," said the venerable captain.

Always Uneducated

The seals he caught were always uneducated. Trainers and zoo keepers have had to teach them how to slap up steps with a ball balanced on their nose and other stunts that delight youngsters.

When McGuire first went into the business he merely walked out on the beach and knocked the sluggish and unsuspecting creatures over the head with a club. He gave this up for two reasons: (1) it killed too many specimens, and (2) it made others so punchy, circus trainers complained they didn't have enough IQ left in their noggins to learn tricks.

In recent years his raw product has been captured near Santa Cruz Island, 20 miles off Santa Barbara, by sea-going cowboys with lassos. His two "seal punchers" first spread strong strand nets disguised as kelp around their sea haunts. When a seal becomes entangled in the net, the cowboys row over and lasso him as he comes up for air. He is then herded into a floating cage.

Won't Talk Prices

Last year McGuire shipped 80 seals to zoos whose supply of animals had been depleted during the war. He doesn't like to talk about prices.

"When you have a world monopoly you don't like to be pinned down on the price," he said. "Circumstances have a lot to do with it."

Over the years, however, he has gotten from $40 to $200 a seal, with no guarantee furnished as to its learning ability.

Seals are something of a problem to ship. They eat from 20 to 30 pounds of fish a day, but they can go a couple of weeks without eating. Yet they can't live without frequent shower baths. They have to be hosed down with water several times during long trips.

Persecution Delusions

Formerly they were shipped in slatted boxes. Mysteriously they pined away enroute. McGuire discovered the reason: Seals are curious. They have to see what is going on around them or they get delusions of persecution. Now they are shipped in wire cages that allow them unlimited visibility, they reach their destination hale and still curious.

Seals never mate in captivity but they live twice as long as they do when free in the wild ocean wastes.

"They go blind after about 10 years in the sea and starve to death because they can no longer find food," explained McGuire.

Seals look cute and friendly in the zoos but McGuire himself has never had the inclination to pet one.

"They bite hard," he said, "particularly the old ones. I never was bit in 42 years by a seal, and at 94 I don't think I want to spoil my record."

VETERAN DRIVER DIES IN AUTO RACE CRASH

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., June 16—Elbert (Grandpappy) Booker, veteran big car driver, was killed yesterday in the first event of the triple A sanctioned auto races at Dayton speedway when his Jewell Hal special crashed into a wall and overturned.

The 45-year-old driver from Detroit, Mich., was picked up unconscious from the track and died of a skull fracture enroute to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Booker, who was a foreman at the Briggs Body Co. in Detroit, was nationally known as a race car driver although he never qualified for the 500-mile race at Indianapolis. Motor trouble prevented him from qualifying in 1946.

Booker's wife and three children were watching the races from the pits when the accident occurred on a straight-away at the far side of the track.

The 20-lay 10-mile race was won by Duke Dinsmore of Dayton, O., who finished 10th in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis on Memorial day. His time was 6:02.55.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep
Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year
You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:
Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment, sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.
To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that 888 Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the 888 Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, 888 Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.
Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is 888 Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people 888 Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of 888 Tonic from your drug store today. 888 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

EPWORTH Methodist church was the scene of the wedding Saturday of Miss Phyllis Ann Buettin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Barney Harold Buettin of 1170 East Center street, to William Russell Midlam. The couple repeated their vow at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor, officiated. The custom of open church was observed.

A background of greenery entwined with white satin bows was formed for the wedding and the altar rail was decorated with garlands of smilax and satin bows. Four baskets of white gladioli, palms and fern decorated the altar which was lighted with candles in five seven brand candelabra. The pews were marked with large bows and greenery.

Preceding the cermony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Elizabeth Pace, cousin of the bride, as organist, and Mrs. Eleanor Smith, soloist. Miss Pace played "At Dawning," Cadman, "Intermezzo," Provost, "Kiss Me Again," Herbert, "Indian Love Call," Friml, "I Bring A Love Song," Romberg, "La Estrellita," Ponce, and the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Smith's selections included "Thine Alone," Herbert, "Because," D'Hardelot, "I Love Thee," Grieg, and "I Love You Truly," Bond.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin styled with a drop yoke of marquisette which was outlined with a flower design of seed pearls. The long sleeves ended in points at the wrists, and the skirt extended into a deep train. Her fingertip veil of imported bridal illusion was held by a cap of satin and tulle edged with seed pearls and accented with pearlized orange blossoms at either side. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a crescent-shaped bouquet fashioned of a white orchid and lilies of the valley with white satin streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs Everett James Welch of Cincinnati, and bridesmaids were Mrs Richard C Rice and Mrs Robert G. Stafford of Marion. Their gowns of French blue nylon marquisette were styled with low off the shoulder shirred bodices and full skirts. Natural flowers accented the shoulder and center of the low necklines. They wore large picture hats of blue horsehair braid accented in the back with a large blue mallne bow, long streamers and a natural rose. They wore long blue mitts and each carried a shower bouquet of pink Bountiful roses with pink streamers.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs Paul Midlam of 614 Miami street and the late Mr Midlam, was his brother, James Midlam. Ushers were William Buettin, brother of the bride, James C Pace of Columbus, cousin of the bride, William C. Williams of Columbus, and Everett J. Welch of Cincinnati. Junior usher was Joe Dan Buettin, a brother of the bride.

The candles were lighted by Miss Jennalee Ward, cousin of the bride, and Miss Nancy Midlam, cousin of the bridegroom. Their gowns were fashioned with a net skirt and taffeta bodice. The bodice was styled with a sweetheart neckline, and the short puffed sleeves were trimmed with tiny pink bows. Each wore a wristlet of pink rosebuds.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Buettin chose a dress in an aqua shade fashioned with a draped skirt. Her flower hat was in pastel shades and black accessories completed her costume. Mrs. Midlam was attired in a navy blue dress trimmed with white eyelet embroidery and navy blue accessories. The skirt had a draped panel front, and her hat was of natural straw trimmed with navy ribbon. Each wore a lavender orchid tied with matching velvet ribbon.

High Mortality Rate Among Little Pigs Hikes Pork Prices

By The Associated Press

...AGO, June 16—If you're ...ing high prices for pork ...re from now, remember ...many little pigs died this ...

... pig losses were ascribed ... weather, disease, and a ...portion of young sows ... breeding stock.

... American Veterinary Medi... association said livestock dis... ...erts in the corn belt were ... attempting to track ...ng cause of tremendous ... this spring's baby pig ... so far nobody has the ... The association said.

... ...e of disease has knocked ... hopes for an increase in ... pork supply. Instead, there probably will be less pork this fall and winter than consumers have seen since the end of price control."

H. M. Conway, market analyst for the national livestock producers association, said "We have had more reports than usual of disease killing off baby pigs this spring, but the cold weather and the breeding of gilts has something to do with the losses.

"Producers last summer and fall sold off their old sows carrying weight and held back gilts for breeding stock. These always have smaller litters, they are not as good mothers, and their pigs are more susceptible to disease. We likely will have a short suply of pork for another year and longer."

E. L. Quaife, animal husbandman for Iowa State college, suggested a virus infection might account for some of the large loss. He reported the infection might be transmitted by the mother to her unborn pigs. Another possible explanation was a nutritional anemia resulting from a lack of sufficient iron in the sow's milk.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Heart Bother You?

Many people are under the impression that all symptoms affecting the heart are due to actual disease of the heart itself and therefore if they experience an unusual rapid beat or other unaccustomed heart action, they are terribly upset. They worry needlessly. In fact, their anxiety may only increase their heart symptoms since according to Dr. George F. Strong of Vancouver, B. C., many such manifestations may be due to nervous tension.

There is a disorder known as neurocirculatory asthenia, not due to actual heart damage, which causes such things as fluttering or throbbing of the heart; there may be an extra beat of the heart from time to time, which is felt as a flopping or turning over of the heart, there are attacks of rapid heart beat which may be preceded or followed by trembling, sweating, paleness or slight fever. There may be shortness of breath from time to time, brought on particularly by excitement.

In some instances there is actual heart pain, which is felt as a sort of burning sensation under the breast bone, or there may be aching. The pain may be felt during or after exercising, and it is not relieved by rest.

Patients with this condition tire easily, wake up tired. They dread any sleep poorly, and often sort of work. They cannot concentrate and are unable to control their emotions. The hands often feel cold, and the palms are wet. Dizziness and faintness are frequently present.

There are other conditions which may cause similar symptoms, sometimes with heart damage such as an increase in the amount of secretion from the thyroid gland, early tuberculosis of the lungs, rheumatic fever and undulant fever. However, by means of careful examination it is possible to tell neurocirculatory asthenia from these other conditions.

According to Dr. Strong the main thing in treating neurocirculatory asthenia is to rid the patient's mind of the fear that his symptoms are an indication of heart disease. This of course requires that the patient have confidence in his physician.

Other things which are helpful in the treatment of neurocirculatory asthenia are the use of barbiturates which act to quiet the nerves and which of course should be taken under the direction of a physician and in the amount which he prescribes.

At the beginning of the treatment, tea, coffee, tobacco and alcohol are prohibited. It is not necessary that the patient be put into a hospital, and prolonged rest is to be avoided. Neurocirculatory asthenia is not a serious disorder, but is one which may be eliminated with proper treatment.

Our Low Cost Means Less Funeral Price . . .

In these days when the cost of about everything has skyrocketed, patrons find surprisingly little increase in our plainly marked prices.

We cannot, of course, control the price of merchandise we buy. However, we can and do keep our own service and operating costs very close to their old low level. On several occasions, an independent audit has shown our operating cost to be far below the average. It is directly reflected in lower prices for funerals.

If this were the result of less in service or equipment, there would be no gain to patrons. We believe our air-conditiond Funeral Home, the Everett organ and other such appointments are ample evidence that the service is equal to any. The savings are made by personal and careful effort by the management.

—But Do Something

IF THE Attlee government calls a conference of European nations, including Russia, to talk about economic recovery financed by the United States it will be the most important international development of 1947.

The Russian government has been making Communist hay in Europe while chaos shone. Its agents have rushed into the vacuum created by war with blueprints for a new order. They have provided leadership for desperate people tired of wandering in a political and economic wilderness.

Ernest O. Hauser is among those pointing out that Communism has become the lesser evil to many Europeans. He says in the current Saturday Evening Post that they are turning to it because there simply is nothing else to turn to.

As far as the mass psychology of the situation is concerned, it is like that in the United States in 1932, when Franklin D. Roosevelt won a national election by admitting he didn't know what he'd do if elected, but he'd do something.

The United States cannot rehabilitate European economies piecemeal; they are too closely integrated. It cannot rehabilitate them without the cooperation of the governments concerned; state socialism is far advanced in all European countries. There is urgent need for the governments concerned to get together—under the United Nations, if possible, but in any event to get together.

Even Russia, suspected of preferring chaos to rehabilitation, must have every opportunity to reject chaos in favor of rehabilitation. If the Kremlin takes its stand in favor of chaos, the issue will be joined clearly between two plans—the plan of the United States to help European societies survive as independent members of a cooperative civilization, and the plan of the Soviet Union to reduce all European societies to sections of a totalitarian state.

More Precious Than Gold

GLORIA JEAN, a young singer from Hollywood, has been entertaining English audiences with a series of recitals. Recently, for singing a musical setting of "The Lord's Prayer," she was severely criticized by some British papers for using the line, "Forgive us our debts." The implication was that it was too topical for comfort.

The English must be suffering from postwar fatigue if they are so sensitive to imagined slights. What has become of their famed trait of equanimity and their delightful sense of humor? For, contrary to an opinion held by many Americans, they have a rare sense of humor, as is evidenced by their literature.

England had better take stock of itself and see that its sense of humor is preserved; and that includes the ability to take kidding (American slang). A sense of humor is more precious than shiploads of Scotch whiskey, gold ingots, oil fields. It's one of the traits that made the British empire great. Lack of it is one of the reasons the Germans are in their present plight. They never learned to take time out for a laugh.

No Degree Required

PITTSBURGH advertises for a street-sweeper who will be paid $3,177 a year. Required: An eighth-grade education. The city also wants a college graduate in natural science at $2,239 a year.

This exemplifies one of the maladjustments in our economic life. Congressman Monroney, in one of the current national magazines, goes into the matter at considerable length, and, of course, the school teachers' plight is another evidence of it.

Back in the 1920's when every bright young lad aspired to go to college and then be a bond salesman, many were concerned lest there would be a shortage of artisans and laborers. To judge from the Pittsburgh dispatch, that's the way things are working out.

Colleges have more students than ever before, but if it's material gains their students are seeking, all but the exceptionally talented are looking in the wrong place. Trade schools union apprenticeships would serve them better.

News Behind the News

Looking Into the Political Confetti Barrel.

WASHINGTON, June 16—Economics has fallen into the political confetti barrel. The colored snow is beginning to fly. You will be getting more of the same on this subject from Washington, probably until the presidential election is over.

Without being asked, Mr. Truman, for instance, came forward with an argumentative statement on prices, aimed particularly at Senator Taft. Certain Republican congressmen read the economic reasoning carefully, then read it again, and said they did not know what the President meant. The top Republican coterie in congress knew what he meant, they said, and it had nothing to do with prices or economics. They said the political-strategist in the White House was getting ready to veto the tax bill, and was preparing his own selected economic reasoning in advance to justify that step.

Taft apparently decided he had been offered a political gage of battle and replied as if he knew this was the opening of the 1948 Republican-Democratic political campaign.

Dangers Viewed

The serious dangers of dropping sound economics in favor of political economic reasoning were gone over at a meeting of business executives (heads of plants and some economists) around the country at a hotel here just a little earlier.

The thorough discussion headed mainly around the question of whether the administration fiscal policies were anywhere near the right track, or even going in the right direction around the track.

One particular report containing some fresh thoughts on this angle was prepared by one of the group and actually presented to an administration official later in a serious non-political way. His reasoning ran like this:

The administration has been proceeding on a false fiscal assumption since V-J day. First it planned on the expectation that there would be millions of unemployed after the war (some estimates ran as high as eight million). This proved to be untrue. Now the administration is battling prices and inflation while following major policies which encourage inflation.

Strange Reasoning

Consider the Truman-Snyder reasoning during the tax fight in congress in connection with their policies on prices. The administration fears inflation if there is any cut in taxes. Yet the cut would release millions of dollars to taxpayers and thus could be used to pay the high prices, and maintain a high-level economy.

It would seem to be inflationary for the government to deny this increase in earning power to the taxpayer in the sense of sponsoring unbalanced economics. In short, one of the ways to fight the high price problem is to place in the hands of the people this portion of the tax money in order that they may pay their bills.

On the other hand, the real basis of the trouble on prices is the high cost of agricultural products and the great rise which has taken place in the price of foods. The basic corollary of this is the added rise in wage rates which was accelerated again by the policies of the administration, mainly before but also after Mr. Truman came into office. The combination in economic unbalance is undoubtedly dangerous.

The author of this report suggested the administration should take steps through the federal reserve board to meet this situation. He said in his report and at the meeting: "The administration might kick us into an unintentional depression instead of merely helping to bring us into equilibrium prices that are now out of line."

Personally, from a purely economic standpoint, spending by people is better than spending by government, because it is more widespread. Also curtailed government spending is certainly a primary essential step to fight against inflation.

Breathes There a Man Too Old To Wrestle

The Miami wrestling commission has denied Strangler Lewis permission to perform on a matcard there on the grounds that he is "too old."

The Strangler, who doesn't look a day over 65, is very properly indignant.

What, after all, is age to a wrestler? Do they not, like Tennyson's brook and John L. Lewis' negotiations, run on and on forever?

Strangler Lewis, whatever his age, can still make faces with the best of them.

Besides, where does the commission get that "too dangerous" stuff. Modern wrestling is the least hazardous occupation in which a man can spend his declining years.

There is, admittedly, always the remote possibility that he might stumble over his bathrobe climbing into the ring or maybe catch cold running abut in his union suit in a draughty auditorium, but these, so far as I can determine, are the only risks a wrestler runs.

"Too old" to wrestle? Is one ever?

Dark Suspicions

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, June 16—Representative Thomas L. Owens of Chicago, Ill., is not easily fooled. He knows, as he indicated in a debate in the house last Tuesday, what all this talk of foreign spending is about. "I believe," he said, "that it is just a question of going on and on, in an attempt to stop the economy program of the Republican party. They are going to stop it any way they can. They will get us into war to stop it, just so that they do stop our program to balance the budget and establish real economy in our governmental operations."

This conviction that the foreign crisis is really a clever plot against the Republican economy program is chiefly interesting as an accurate barometer of the mood of a considerable proportion of the congress. This mood is not confined to the house, although there it comes to its fullest flower. One senator, himself entirely aware of the real meaning of the foreign situation, has remarked flatly that "there's going to be one hell of a fight before the senate will approve another cent for spending abroad."

There is of course another side to the coin. A small group of the most powerful senate leaders has been conferring regularly with Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson. These senators are fully alive to the grim facts which underlay Secretary Marshall's historic speech at Harvard. Their leader, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, is expected soon to make a dramatic speech in which he will fire the first gun in the campaign to awaken congress to the desperate urgency of the situation. Yet it will be a long and hard campaign.

Signs of Restlessness

Among Senator Vandenberg's own colleague's such unimpressive statesmen as Harry P. Cain and James P. Kem, endowed with a matchless ignorance of foreign affairs, are growing restless under Vandenberg's leadership. "It will be an even longer and harder campaign in the house, as the debate in which Mr. Owens took such distinguished part made clear.

Perhaps the most stirring oratory during the debate was contributed by Leon H. Gavin of Pennsylvania. Mr. Gavin started his speech by remarking crisply, "Mr. Chairman, internationalist this and internationalist that." This served as an adequate introduction to Mr. Gavin's description of a disease called "Washingtonitis." In a few cogent paragraphs Mr. Gavin brought vividly home to his colleagues the dread effects of this disease. Particularly vulnerable were those congressmen who came to Washington "from the farms of America — good, sound, clear-thinking Americans."

The first onslaught of the disease "causes one to feel that that he has become a great statesman, with the weight of all the world's problems on his shoulders." Mr. Gavin put his finger unerringly on the source of the infection. If the innocent rustic solon "gets a few invitations to the embassies for tea or cocktails—well, he is gone, he is sunk, he is all out for any crackpot idea that will count him in with the world thinkers or the world do-gooders." Mr. Gavin then went on to make it clear that, "country boy from the rural areas of the great state of Pennsylvania" though he was, he had successfully withstood the virus.

Indication of Mood

The debate concerned the state department's information and educational exchange program, a relatively minor matter which involves no colossal appropriation. Yet it served to bring to light the mood of deep and dark suspicion with which many members of the house approach the whole matter of American foreign policy. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware intimated that General Bedell Smith, American ambassador to Russia, was really convinced of the superiority of the Soviet system because he had supported the state department's program.

Perhaps the most remarkable suspicion was voiced by that redoubtable statesman, Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan. Speaking on the bill's provision for the exchange of students with foreign countries, Mr. Hoffman revealed that the real purpose was to establish, under the aegis of the state department, an espionage net directed against the United States. In a sentence as remarkable for its construction as for its meaning, Mr. Hoffman declared:

"By this bill you are putting into the hands of the secretary of state and his outfit down there, the outfit that has harbored the Reds for the last 10 years, who had them inside, putting it in the power of the department of state to bring over from abroad the agents of other countries and turn them loose in our industrial world to learn our processes, how we do things, how we get mass production, how we make things better than they do. How do you like that kind of procedure?"

Called "Confusion"

Mr. Hoffman's plaintive question went unanswered, unless the subsequent remark of Walter E. Brehm of Ohio can be considered an answer: "I say," said Mr. Brehm, "we are confused." That would appear to be an understatement.

Yet although the house debate had its entertaining moments, its larger implications were wholly serious. Mr. Gavin, Mr. Owens, Mr. Boggs, Mr. Hoffman and their allies in the debate accurately reflect the mood of a large proportion of the congress, which no doubt in turn accurately reflects the mood of a large proportion of the country. It is this mood which has induced some of the better informed American policy makers, who know that this country is faced with the real possibility of a wholly disastrous political and strategic defeat, to succumb in their weaker moments to a sense of impending doom.

Possible Disease Cure Seen

Monkey Brain Tissue Tests May Solve Human Problem.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, June 16—A startling kind of allergy, which kills monkeys injected with monkey brain tissue, is being investigated as a promising key to a baffling, tragic nervous disease in humans.

The human disease is multiple sclerosis, a patchy, paralyzing breaking-down of the central nervous system. It is more common than polio, and often fatal.

A very similar disease is produced in monkeys when they are given monkey or rabbit brain tissue.

They get a kind of allergy that causes fatal lesions or injuries at different points in their central nervous systems.

Something in the injected brain tissue causes this reaction, even though this same substance already exists in and may be needed by the living brain, Dr. Elvin A. Kabat, assistant professor of bacteriology at Columbia university college of physicians and surgeons said today.

Similarity Seen

The injections may cause the monkeys to become immunized against their own tissue, he said. There is a possibility that some similar mechanism may cause multiple sclerosis in humans, he added. An injury or disease may liberate some substance from human brain tissue and start the allergic reaction.

Dr. Kabat, one of three authors of the recent report on bacteriological warfare, has just been awarded a grant of $64,350 for a three-year study of this puzzle by the Association for the Advancement of Research on Multiple Sclerosis, Inc., of New York City. Dr. Kabat, Dr. Abner Wolf, and Miss Ada E. Bezer are to report the monkey experiments to the American neurological association in Atlantic City this week.

More than 10 years ago, Drs. T. M. Rivers and F. E. Schwentker discovered that emulsions of rabbit brain tissue could produce a destructive nervous disease in monkeys. It took 30 to 100 injections and three to 13 months for the symptoms to appear. The disease is acute disseminated encephalomyelitis, which some physician regard as an acute kind of multiple sclerosis.

React Against Brain

Dr. Kabat and his co-workers reasoned that perhaps the monkeys' tissues produced antibodies to something in the injected brain emulsion. Antibodies usually are protective substances that fight disease. But in this case, they might react against the same chemical in the living brain, producing the disease.

To the brain tissue injections, they added substances which are known to speed up formation of antibodies. The monkeys got the disease within a few weeks to a month, after a few injections. This gives support to the antibody theory.

They also produced the disease by using monkey brain tissue, as well as rabbit. Similar results were obtained independently at the same time by Dr. Isabel M. Morgan of Johns Hopkins.

Coats Nerves

One hunch, Dr. Kabat said, is that the responsible substance in the brain is myelin, a chemical which coats the nerves and is thought to be an insulator. Antibodies formed against the injected myelin may react with the myelin in the brain, thus preventing the myelin there from functioning.

To test this, they injected some monkeys with brain tissue from fetal or unborn monkeys. Their tissue contains no myelin. Monkeys given this tissue did not get the disease. This may mean, Dr. Kabat said, that myelin or some other substance in the adult monkey brain, but not present in the unborn monkey, is the responsible agent.

The quick method of producing the disease in monkeys offers a controlled way to experiment and seek its exact mechanism.

Multiple sclerosis usually strikes humans between the ages of 20 and 40. It may paralyze suddenly, or spread slowly. There often are periods of improvement between attacks.

The grant is the first by the association, which is seeking statistics on all cases of the disease. Its offices are in the New York academy of medicine building, New York City.

Daily Bible Thought

There are certain very simple laws that bring prosperity to men and nations. Robbery and theft, the enslavement of weaker ones finally ruin the nations and men that employ these ways. God has a better law of prosperity.—Isa. 1:19: "If ye be willing and obedient ye shall eat the good of the land."

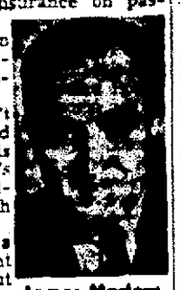
Airlines Carry Heavy Insurance Against Mishap To Passengers

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 16—What about air crash victims? Do the big commercial airlines insure their passengers against injury or death?

Yes. They insure their passengers and their planes and carry insurance against damage done by the planes to property or the public.

How much insurance on passengers?



James Marlow

Probably an average of $30,000 per passenger.

This doesn't mean an injured person, or his relatives if he's killed, can collect that much or that little.

In one case a settlement might be reached out of court with an insurance company.

In another a victim or his survivors might sue for far more than the insurance company was willing to settle for out of court.

The information here comes from government officials and representatives of insurance companies and airlines.

At the office of one big airline, which has had two recent big crashes, this was told:

The airline, being insured, didn't have to do anything. But the insurance company did.

$15,000 Per Casualty

It went around to the survivors of the crash victims and paid them, without any court action, about $15,000 for each passenger killed.

One insurance company representative said his firm never settles out of court but always lets a judge decide what damages, if any, should be paid.

This statement was brushed aside by other officials. They pointed out:

Always forcing survivors to sue isn't smart. Court suit cost money. If an insurance company could save money by settling out of court, it would.

How much does it cost an airline to insure its passengers?

Cost Varies

That varies. It would be something like this:

Say an airline takes out $50,000 insurance on each passenger at the rate of $0.0015 per passenger mile. The plane carries 50 passengers 250 miles. That's 12,500 passenger miles.

So, at a cost of $0.0015 a passenger mile, the cost of the insurance to the airline for that 250 mile trip with 50 passengers would be $18.75.

For how much do the airlines insure their planes?

That, too, varies.

The insurance company representative mentioned above said an airline would pay per year in insurance about 3 to 4 per cent of the plane's value.

$20,000 Per Plane

So at 4 per cent on a new $500,000 plane, an airline would have to pay an insurance company $20,000 a year.

Suppose a $500,000 plane, carrying 50 passengers, crashed and was destroyed, killing all passengers.

Suppose, too, that the insurance company was able to settle with the survivors of the crash victims at $10,000 for each of the 50 passengers.

That would be $500,000 paid out in passenger insurance, plus $500,000 for the destroyed plane. Total cost to the insurance company: $1,000,000.

There are various rates for the insurance taken out by airlines against damage caused by a plane to property or the public. For example:

A plane that crashed into a house or fell into a city street, killing passers-by.

One of the top officials of the Air Transport Association of America, a central organization of big airlines, said this:

At airports you can buy insurance on yourself at the rate of 25 cents for $5,000, up to $25,000.

But, he explained, this has no connection with insurance carried by the airlines on their passengers, which means:

Your family could collect the insurance you bought, if you were killed, plus what it could get from the company which insured all the passengers on the crashed plane.

In spite of the many recent crashes, a government official said, insurance rates on passengers have come down in the past year.

He gave this reason; the increased number of pasenger miles flown.

Last year, for instance, when 75 passengers were killed, the passenger miles flown totaled 6,046,000,000.

In 1945, there were 76 passengers killed and only 3,555,000,000 passenger miles flown.

Twenty-two crew members died last year and 12 in 1945, in addition to the passengers.

Sentence Jail Deliverers To Death as Arabs Strike Against UN Group.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, June 16—A military court condemned three convicted Jewish terrorists to death as the United Nations commission of Palestine opened its inquiry today amid an Arab general strike.

The Jews were accused of participating in the May 4 jail delivery which freed 251 prisoners from Acre prison and left 16 persons dead. Two other Jews tried with the condemned trio were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Irgun Czai Leumi, underground organization which took responsibility for the prison break, was expected to appeal to the UN commission in an effort stay the sentences. Irgun repeatedly has threatened "blood for blood" retaliation against the British for death sentences against its members.

The Arab strike, called to emphasize the organized Arabs' boycott of the UN inquiry, paralyzed much of Palestine's activity. In Cairo, the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem sounded a "call upon all Arabs to protect the Holy Land."

Sentencing in the Acre case climaxed a two-week trial. Those condemned were Jacoub Weiss, 23, a Natanya laborer; Absolom Habib, 20, Jerusalem clerk; and Meir Nakar, 21, Jerusalem shoemaker. Life sentences went to Amman Michaelov and Nahman Zilberbaum, both 18.

All were charged with carrying arms and explosives, firing at British army personnel, illegally wearing military uniforms and being members of an illegal organization.

Republicans Indicate Tax Veto May Be Campaign Issue in '48

WASHINGTON, June 16—Republican bigwigs in congress and out hit back at President Truman's tax bill veto today with words leaving little doubt they expect it to be a 1948 presidential campaign issue. But many Democrats defended it.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), author of the vetoed measure and chairman of the tax-writing house ways and means committee, called the President's suggestion that tax-cutting must wait until next year "nothing but cold-blooded politics."

He declared in a statement that President Truman, by his action, demonstrated "a sad lack of understanding of the needs of our economy."

Asks Veto Overrider

Knutson called on congress to pass the bill over the veto. The house will vote tomorrow.

On the other side, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder declared the veto was "fairly justified by the existing financial situation of the government."

He said in a statement that the President's action "constitutes firm assurance to the American people that the administration is determined that the finances of its government will continue to be kept on a sound basis."

Carroll Reece, chairman of the national Republican committee, said in a statement that Mr Truman "has committed his administration to continued support of the tax and tax, and spend and spend, and elect and elect philosophy of the now discredited New Deal."

He added:

"That philosophy was repudiated by the American people last November, and I am confident it will be repudiated again and even more emphatically in 1948."

"Thwarts Will of People"

House Republican Leader Halleck (Ind.) issued a statement declaring that Mr. Truman "has thwarted the will of the people, as expressed through their recently elected representatives in congress."

"I hope," he went on, "that Democratic President Truman does not continue to disregard the will of the people by resorting to the veto power on major legislation passed by a Republican congress, and thus try to hamstring congress by making it necessary to have two-thirds majorities for all measures unwanted by the New Deal masters of the Democratic party."

Rep. Andresen (R-Minn.) suggested on the house floor today that the Republicans take the lead now in paying war veterans' terminal leave bonds with the funds resulting from continuance of wartime levies.

level of personal exemptions and changes in excise tax laws, gift and estate taxes, corporation taxes and "the entire field of tax revenues."

"Falls Where Needed Most"

"H.R. 1 (the tax reduction bill) fails to give relief where it is needed most," his message asserted. "Under H.R. 1, tax savings to the average family with an income of $2,500 would be less than $30, while taxes on an income of $50,000 would be reduced by nearly $5,000 and on an income of $500,000 by nearly $60,000.

"Insofar as 'take home' pay is concerned under H.R. 1, the family earning $2,500 would receive an increase of only 1.2 per cent; the family with an income of $50,000 would receive an increase of 18.6 per cent; and the family with an increase of $500,000 would receive increase of 62.3 per cent.

Six Provisions Of Truman-Vetoed Tax Cutting Bill

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Here are the provisions of the Republican tax-cutting bill which President Truman vetoed today:

1. Withholdings against wages and salaries for tax purposes would be reduced July 1.

2. The tax cut on a yearly basis would be 30 per cent for persons with taxable income (after exemptions and deductions) of $1,000 or less. This would mean the 30 per cent cut would apply to single persons with total earning before exemptions and reductions, up to $1,656; married persons $2,222; married couples with one child $2,777; married couples with two children, $3,333.

3. Persons with taxable income between $1,000 and $1,400 would get a flat $52 to $57 annual tax reduction or a 20 per cent cut of their tax bill, which ever was the larger.

4. The tax reduction would be 20 per cent for taxable incomes above $1,400 and up to $137,000; 15 per cent on taxable incomes from $137,000 to $302,000, and $10.5 per cent on any income above $302,000.

5. The measure would reduce the present ceiling of 85.5 per cent at which any income can be taxed, to 81 per cent in 1947 and 76.5 in 1948.

6. Persons over 65 years old would be given an extra personal exemption of $500, bringing their exemption to a total of $1,000.

cated that a solid front of 200,000 CIO maritime workers would be involved in the stoppage.

The unions and their claimed memberships are the NMU, 90,000; American Communications association, 3,000; International Longshoremens and Warehousemen's union, 80,000; Marine Engineers Beneficial association, 15,000; Marine Cooks and Stewards, 12,000.

Makes Telegram Public

Curran also made public a telegram from the AFL Seafarer's International union pledging "complete support" of the CIO seamen and promising that AFL men would refuse to work on ships that might be allocated by operators of struck lines to those not affected.

The stoppage hinged on demands by the NMU and the ACA for wage boosts of 20 and 15 per cent respectively, plus other contract improvements, and extension of the expired contract by the marine cooks. The MEBA and Longshoremen on the West Coast have agreed on contract extensions but promised to follow the lead of the others in the event of a "lockout."

A threat that the stoppage would be extended to tankers which were not affected by last night's order, was made by NMU Vice President Jack Lawrenson, who heads the union sub-committee negotiating with 20 tanker companies here.

Wilberforce Presidency Dispute Carried to Court

By The Associated Press

XENIA, O., June 16—The dispute over the presidency of Wilberforce State university was in the courts today.

Under an order issued by Probate Judge W. B. McCallister Jr., Dr. Charles H. Wesley was restrained from setting up a rival summer school and from interfering with the "orderly operation of the office of president."

The university African Methodist Episcopal church board of trustees, which removed Dr. Wesley as president last week, applied in common pleas court Saturday for an injunction against Dr. Wesley. The church board declared Dr. Wesley had set up offices and announced his intention of continuing as president of the state controlled and largest of Wilberforce's three colleges—the college of education and industrial arts.

The restraining order was issued by the probate judge in the absence of common pleas court Judge Frank L. Johnson.

LEGISLATURE

"featherbedding," sit-down and jurisdictional strikes by employes and bans employer interference with union organization and collective bargaining.

Political Contributions Taboo

A reasonable number of pickets would be permitted at strike-bound plants, but force violence or threats to keep workers from entering a plant would be prohibited. Unions would have to furnish annual financial reports to members who requested them, and political campaign contributions would be taboo.

Public employes would be prohibited from striking on penalty of automatically losing their jobs. Reinstatement could not be made within a year, and then would be followed by a two-year probationary period.

Female and child labor laws were relaxed to an extent comparable to that during the war.

Portal-to-portal pay actions were limited to two years.

Teachers' Raises a Must

The Daniels-Cramer school bill as finally approved provides for an annual state subsidy of approximately $86,000,000 a year compared with the $59,000,000 provided for the last biennium. Seventy-five per cent of the increase must be used for teachers' salary increases which would range from $600 to $800 a year.

A rotary fund of $4,000,000 from which school boards could borrow to purchase school buses was set up, and $2,000,000 was set aside for rehabilitation of school properties.

Salary increases averaging about 30 per cent were voted for members of the legislature, all state officials and employes and county officials. Judges were given a $1,000 increase to a maximum of $12,000.

The new salaries of legislators will be $2,600 a year, governor $13,000, lieutenant governor $4,000, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general $8,500. All will become effective with new terms. Salaries of non-elective employes become effective at once.

Local Aid $25,000,000

Local government aid was pegged at $12,000,000 allocated from sales taxes and $13,000,000 from certain intangible taxes each year with a cushion of any admissions taxes which the local government may levy and collect.

In addition to the bonuses for veterans, two constitutional amendments were ordered submitted to the voters at the next November election. They provide for: A six-year term for probate judges, and the addition of the governor and treasurer to the sinking fund trustees, who now are the secretary of state, auditor, and attorney general.

A state subsidy of $2.50 for treatment of tuberculosis patients in public non-state hospitals and $1.25 for those in private hospitals was established at an estimated cost of $3,566,250 for the remaining 18 months of the biennium.

Police and firemen's pensions were placed on a sound footing by increasing the members' contributions and setting up a state fund of $1,600,000 to take care of deficiencies.

Municipalities were authorized to provide for off-street parking facilities and counties to zone unincorporated areas.

Co-operatives were ordered taxed on the same basis as other corporations.

Ohio Colleges Reported Still Enrolling Students

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., June 16—The Ohio College association today reported most Ohio colleges still are accepting enrollment applications for the fall term.

Of the 41 Ohio colleges only 14 have reached capacity enrollment. Twenty-one have reached capacity in housing.

"Despite rumors to the contrary, hundreds of high school graduates still may enroll in Ohio colleges for the coming year," commented Dr. K. H. McFall, guidance director at Bowling Green State university.

Only three Ohio colleges—Hiram college, Miami university, and Ohio Northern university—are guaranteeing housing for accepted married couple, while 15 guarantee housing for single men and 19 for women.

Massillon Hospital May Hire Private Detectives

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., June 16—Private investigators will be hired by City hospital to "clear the record" if public officials fail to solve the mystery concerning the deaths of two baby girls at the insututions, says J. G. Lester, president of the hospital's board of trustees.

Asserting the hospital was determined to prevent the deaths of Rosemary Morton, 10 weeks, and Diane Jean Brand, eight weeks, from being entered in the records as an "unsolved case," Lester said the hospital would take definite action if public officials do not solve the mystery.

Stark County Prosecuting Attorney D. Dane McLaughlin continued an investigation into a Wayne county deputy's statement that he saw a man and woman entering and leaving the hospital via a rear stairway at about 7:30 p. m., June 6, the time when the deaths "could have occurred." The deputy was a patient at that time.

FLOOD

tors were taken to their posts by boat.

The telephone office at Bonaparte, 10 mile downstream from Keosauqua, had three feet of water in it. The switchboard and the operator's chair had been elevated above the flood.

All Residents Evacuated

Only a small part of the residential area was flooded, and all residents had been evacuated before the flood struck, Teal said.

Keosauqua, like Ottumwa, was hit for the second time in eight days by a near-record flood.

At Ottumwa, meanwhile, residents were watching the high waters recede slowly. S. E. Decker, at the Des Moines weather station, said the flood would abate much more slowly than that of last week. He said it would take the river six days to return to its banks.

Flood workers were keeping a close watch on the power plant and the water works, both of which were knocked out last week.

The Red Cross and the Salvation Army were feeding most of the 10,000 persons left homeless by the flood in Ottumwa.

$10,000,000 Damage

Ottumwa flood director Herschel Loveless estimated property damage at Ottumwa alone at more than $10,000,000.

Down the river, Keokuk, Ia., reported both the Mississippi and the Des Moines river on the rise. A Burlington, Ia., forecaster last week said the highest peak in history would be recorded later this week on the Mississippi between Keokuk and Louisiana, Mo.

At Cedar Rapids the chief damage was seepage which caused the Quaker Oats Company, known as the world's largest cereal mill, to halt production for today and reduced operations at Penick and Ford, grain processors, by one third. At Iowa City, where an Iowa river flood crest was approaching, precautionary steps had been taken to protect the University of Iowa trailer camp for married students and other riverside installations.

At Red Oak, in Southwest Iowa, Sheriff Wayne McPherson said he planned to continue the search today for the body of Marion Edie, 22, of Emerson, Ia., believed to be the only person drowned in this week's floods.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat
It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rexsol Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.
If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if noticible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and have bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you look. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Plan Picnic for Scout "Widows and Orphans"

Plans were announced today for a "Scout widows and orphans" picnic June 29 from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. at Camp John A. Owens.

The picnic plans were started by scouters in the Marion district to partially compensate for the number of times scoutmasters and other officials have been away from their families due to scout activities increasing in the Harding area.

A special program has been planned and more than 500 are expected to attend. The program will include games and contests for the youngsters and several amateur acts in addition to a treasure hunt, flag ceremony and musical entertainment. Feature of the afternoon is a stunt in which the Scouters will teach their wives all they know about scouting in five minutes.

The picnic, first in a series, will give many of the families a chance to see the Boy Scout camp and become better acquainted with camping and other scouting activities.

AIR CORPS UNIT IN REUNION HERE

33 Vets Who Served in Africa, Italy Meet.

The first post-war reunion of the Headquarters Squadron of the 18th Air Depot Group, 15th Air Force, in which four Marion men are included, was held Saturday and Sunday at Hotel Harding with 33 men of the squadron present, representing Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

During a short business meeting, three officers were elected to make arrangements for the reunion next year. They are Robert Shannessy of Troy, O., general committee chairman, Joseph Rewuer, of Springfield, secretary of Anderson, Ind., committee and treasurer, and Earl Sefton chairman on housing and entertainment.

The squadron received approximately 13 months training at Patterson Field, Dayton, O., and served overseas for two years in Africa and Italy. About 200 men made up the squadron.

A committee was named to draw up a charter and organize the group into a club. Members of the committee are Robert Shannessy, Gene Wefler of Dayton, and William Wendland and Wayne Lasinski of Chicago, Ill.

Tentative plans have been made for the reunion next year to be held the first weekend in June at Patterson Field.

The four men in the outfit from Marion are W. D. Imbody, Dever Haas, William Payette and Francis Walker.

NURSERY SCHOOL PLANNED BY FOREST LAWN CHURCH

Weekday Service To Parents Proposed for Community.

Tentative plans are being made by Forest Lawn Presbyterian church for a weekday nursery school to be set up for children of parents in the community who are interested in such a project, Rev. L. V. Bauguess, pastor, announced today.

It is hoped that the school will be opened in September to be run on a nine-month basis, Rev. Bauguess stated. Open each day from 9 a. m. until noon, the school, for children between the ages of three and five, will be in charge of competent and experienced teachers. It will be operated according to state and local regulations. Supervision will be by a carefully chosen school board, sponsored by church, Rev. Bauguess said.

Feeling that such a setup will be appreciated and will fill a definite need, the church formed a committee to arrange details. It will provide a practical and not too costly arrangement for working parents, the church group believes. Parents who are interested are asked to contact Donald Voorhorst of 255 Uhler avenue at 5411, or Rev. Bauguess at 160 Kenmore avenue.

Bosox Wild Over Debut Of Rudy York's Replacement

By The Associated Press

His name is Murrell Jones but up in Boston the fans believe it should be "Merriwell" Jones.

For the big guy, who was acquired from the Chicago White Sox only last Saturday night in an even swap for Rudy York, got going for his new club like the fictional hero.

Playing his first game in a Red Sox uniform, the 26-year-old first baseman from Epps, La., smashed out a home run to help defeat his former mates 7-3. He did even better in the second game, belting a home run with the bases full with two out in the last half of the ninth inning to win for Boston 8-4. Earlier in the game, Jones had singled in two runs to give him a total of six RBI's for the game.

York Looks Feeble

In the meantime the best York could do in his first day in a White Sox uniform was to get two singles in eight times at bat, both of his hits coming in the second game and having nothing to do with Chicago's scoring. The Red Sox moved into a second place tie with the Detroit Tigers.

The Yankees had climbed into the American league's number one position by virtue of a double win over the St. Louis Browns before 55,691 fans at the Yankee stadium. After combing Jack Kramer for a 10-4 victory in the opener of the doubleheader, the Yanks, behind Randy Gumpert, eked out a 2-1 win against Bob Muncrief.

Washington surprised the Tigers by taking both ends of a doubleheader 1-0 and 5-1, to knock the benguls out of the league lead.

Braves Sink Pittsburgh

The battering Boston Braves blasted eight Pittsburgh pitchers for 28 hits to swamp the Pirates 13-4 and 12-3 in both ends of their doubleheader and take over undisputed possession of first place in the National league.

The Giants retained a slim two point margin over the third place Cubs by winning the second game of their doubleheader with the Reds in Cincinnati 9-1 after dropping the opener 4-3. Grady Hatton's fourth homer helped Johnny Vander Meer decision Clint Hartung in the opener. Monte Kennedy aided by Johnny Mize's 17th homer, easily gained his sixth win in the nightcap. Bucky Walters was charged with the Cincinnati loss, being driven to the showers in the fourth.

Schoolboy Rowe snapped a five-game winning streak of the Chicago Cubs in pitching a 6-1 victory for the Philadelphia Phillies.

The fast climbing St. Louis Cardinals moved within a half game of the fifth place Reds by taking their fourth straight from the Brooklyn Dodgers in St. Louis 11-3.

Tribe in 2nd Division After Split with A's

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 16 — Muffing a chance to sweep the first series of their current eastern trip, the Cleveland Indians remained in the second divisiorf today in the American league race.

Taking a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics as Mel Harder copped the 220th triumph of his major league career in the opener of a doubleheader yesterday, the Indians held a 4-1 lead in the seventh inning of the nightcap before the A's rallied for a 6-4 edge.

Rapping a double and two singles in four trips to drive in four runs, catcher Jim Hegan was the star of the initial contest. Ed Klieman, relief specialist, limited the A's to one hit in three and one-third innings to protect Harder's victory.

Tallying a pair of markers in the second inning of the nightcap on Gordon's walk, Keltner's double and a single by Hegan, the Tribe stretched its advantage to 4-1 in the seventh before the roof caved in on six Cleveland hurlers.

Roger Wolff, 34-year-old knuckle-ball hurler obtained from Washington for George Case, was sold by the Tribe to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday for an estimated $10,000.

J. B. Bray Posts Low Score in Golf Tourney

J. B. Bray shot a 44 and 40 to post the low gross score in the tournament at the Country Club yesterday.

Cool weather hampered golfing, but the course was in its best shape of the season for a large turnout. The tourney followed a early morning breakfast.

Next tournament at the club will be an inter-city match with the Shawnee Cuntry Club of Lima, Thursday. Because of the date, Ladies' day at the club will be held tomorrow.

2 PHILS JOIN REDS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 16 — Two ex-Philadelphia Phils, southpaw pitcher Ken Raffensberger and catcher Hugh Poland, join the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow. They were acquired in a straight, no cash involved trade for catcher Al Lakeman Saturday.

THE WORSHAMS ADMIRE THE TROPHY. Lew Worsham and Mrs. Worsham (left) are mighty proud people as they stand with the trophy at St. Louis Country club after Lew won the U. S. Open golf championship in an 18 hole playoff with Sammy Snead, at right.

CLEVER STRATGEM WINS U.S. GOLF OPEN

Worsham Rattles Snead and Makes Victory Certain.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, June 16 — The corner golf folks have been talking about for several years—Lewis W. (Lem) Worsham of Washington, D. C.—has arrived with the National Open crown perched jauntily on a fast-thinking head.

Some say it was Sam Snead's schoolboyish putting on the 18th green of their title playoff at the St. Louis Country club yesterday that gave 20-year-old Worsham a dramatic one-stroke victory.

When Sammy blew a 30½-inch putt for his losing 70, it was seconds after Worsham pulled a psychological swifty—demanding that U. S. G. A. officials measure both balls to see who had the outside lie in the payoff taps for both.

Snead had judged he was a fraction outside of where Worsham's ball had squirted after nicking the cup in a magnificent chip shot from the rim of the green; and stepped up to address the ball.

Worsham cooly interrupted him and waved in the officials, armed with a tape measure, who confirmed what Snead had guessed—he was a half inch outside Worsham's ball.

But the interruption obviously nettled already-harrassed Snead, who was anxious to follow up his failing first putt from 15 feet.

Snead was less steady than before as he approached the ball the second time. His putt squirmed off to the right and missed the cup completely.

Worsham casually stepped up and knocked in his 29½ inch putt for the title and a two-under-par 69 which climaxed four extremely steady round of 70-70-71-71—282 in regulation play.

Play in Indiana Tonight; Return Against Richmond Tomorrow

By DON C. BURTON

MUNCIE, June 16—The red hot Marion Cubs took two shutout victories and lost one the same way in three games with the Muncie Packers over the weekend.

Saturday night Bill Rosin got back in form and applied the whitewash to the Packers 3-0.

In the first game Sunday afternoon Jim Hildebrand, Muncie righthander, kept the Cubs from scoring although they threatened in nearly every inning, the Packers winning 5-0 as John Edington weakened in the late innings after he had retired the first 12 Muncie batters in order.

In the final seven-inning nightcap Sunday Ed Witowski again refused to open the door and Marion won 6-0.

Cubs in Third

The two wins gave the Cubs possession of third place in the league, tied with Newark in games behind Zanesville. The present road trip now reads four wins in five starts with one more game to be played in Muncie tonight. Jim Sabens wil hurt the final game for the Cubs. They return home tomorrow against Richmond.

The Cubs won the Saturday night game with a run in the second inning without a hit. Bob Shuford walked and moved up when Nelson was hit by a pitched ball. Forbes walked to load the bases and Bill Rosin won his own game when he drove in Shuford with an infield out.

Two more runs were added in the eighth. Roy Hollingshead was hit by a pitchel ball and was forced by John Smith. Bobzean sent Smitty to third with a single and he scored on a hit by Manager Nelson Burbrink, Bobzean going to third.

Work Balk Play

The Cubs then worked their famous early steal play with Gene scoring and Burbrink getting a stolen base when Dickinson balked.

The Cubs had Jim Hilderbrand on the ropes all during the first game Sunday afternoon, but could never come through with a hit in the clutch. The Muncie hurler walked Burbrink three times to avoid pitching to him with men on. Each time the stretgy worked. John Edington mowed the Packers down in this game for the first four innings without a man getting to first. To start the fifth Foster tagged him for a double and after two were out, scored on a single by Mello. A single, a sacrifice and another single gave the Packers a run in the sixth. Three runs came over in the eighth on three hits including a home run by Lamont.

Win Game in Fourth

In the seven-inning windup yesterday, the Cubs got the necessary runs in the fourth inning. Manager Burbrink led off with a double and Bob Shuford walked. The Marion skipper tallied on the first of two singles by Jim Forbes. Shuford going to third and he tallied later on an infield out by Bruce Adams. Adams was catching the game with Manager Burbrink playing left field. Adams' parents were visiting the team from their home in Kankakee, Ill.

In the sixth frame, Dwight Maxhimer was hit in the ribs with a pitched ball and stole second. After Burbrink flied out Shuford walked. Jim Forbes again came through with a hit to score Max. Two more walks pushed big Bob across the plate. Maxhimer was taken from the game in the next inning.

Only Richmond Able To Sweep OSL Twin Bill

By The Associated Press

Richmond's Roses alone among Ohio State league clubs were able to sweep a doubleheader Sunday, but their 14-11 and 14-3 victories over the Lima Terriers were not enough to lift them above fifth place.

The slugging Roses were led by their new 18-year-old left fielder, Bob Pottenger, who made four hits and batted in two runs in the opener.

The Zanesville Dodgers retained a 5½ game hold on the league lead by dividing a twin bill at Springfield, winning the opener 9-8 and losing the nightcap 4-3. Dick Vonderhaar, Springfield rightfielder, and John Potpinka, Zanesville first baseman, each homered with one man on base in the opener.

At Dayton, the home team Indians spanked Newark's Browns 15-5 in the opener, helped by five walks from Newark starter Bob Elliott, and six runs in the first frame. But in the nightcap, the Browns got to Indian righthander Al Miller for their first hit in the sixth inning, tied the score at 3-3 with two runs in the seventh, and after one scoreless extra inning pushed over a run on a walk, a stolen base, and a two-base error to win 4 to 3.

NEW STABLES BUILT FOR HARNESS RACES

Little Grand Circuit Adopts Latest Starting Device.

To aid housing the more than 500 horses who will have to be stabled for the Little Grand Circuit race meet here July 1-19 two new stables are being erected at the fairgrounds.

Frank Foster, president of the Marion Trotting Association, said that horses will also be quartered at Mt. Gilead, Richwood, and Delaware.

Horses will be started with the Paul Young starting gate, one of the newest developed starters in harness racing. The gate is rigged to the rear of an automobile, which drives ahead of the horses, keeping any from forging ahead before the starters signal. Each wing of the gate then retracts along the side of the car, which drives off of the track after the start.

Surface in front of the grandstand is being black topped.

"CHRIST FOR YOUTH" RALLY IN 2ND WEEK

Two Sermons, Special Choir Music Heard Sunday.

The second week of "Christ for Youth" rally services at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church started Sunday, with good attendance reported for both morning and evening services. Rev. James Sutherland of Akron delivered the sermons and a youth choir of about 20 members took part.

At the morning service, prayer was offered by Edwin Endicott. Walter Collins and Rev. Marvin Lewis, and the choir sang "Hand in Hand with Jesus," directed by Mrs. Robert Broadbeck. The Scripture was the fourth and fifth verses of Psalm 8, and the sermon subject was "An Eye for Men." Rev. Sutherland said: "One of the besetting sins of the church is to lose its outlook for the individual. We may see in every single person we come in contact with in the schools or on the highway, a potential candidate for redemption in Jesus Christ. Some one asks, "What is man?" Man is a being with a purpose. The chief end of man is to put God first in his life and relate himself to God so that it will bring honor to his name."

In the evening, the sermon was "The Pull of the Cross." Rev. Dewey Long, of Wagram, song leader, sang "Oh What a Love." The Scripture was various verses from the first and twelfth chapters of John. Rev. Sutherland said, "Our world condition today is traceable to one source—the sin and stupidity of the human race. When man takes the controls he does a bum job. How does Jesus handle the problem of sin in the world? From the cross and in His life He does remove the power of sin from a man's life. By His presence He removes the desire and thought of sin. If you want the power of sin taken out of your life, let Christ come in."

MARKET FOLLOWS IRREGULAR COURSE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—Several pivotals eased slightly today as the stock market followed a narrowly irregular course.

Acting as brakes on enthusiasm were unsettled foreign situations and concern over the current labor disputes and effects of the maritime tie-up.

In lower territory much of the session were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Norfolk and Western, Santa Fe, General Motors, Chrysler, Western Union "A," Public Service of N. J., Goodrich, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin and International Nickel. Better performers included Standard Oil (N.J.) which touched a new 1947 high, Texas Co., Baltimore and Ohio, Air Reduction, Youngstown Sheet, Allied Chemical, Kennecott and Electric Power and Light.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I RARELY have put in a more uneasy quarter of an hour than that in which I tried to read while Mary sat with her eyes closed and her body slumped against the cushions of her chair, waiting to recite the first two lines of her role in my play.

That she could not relax as I had urged, I was very sure. I knew that she must be anxiously counting the seconds until I should ask her to give me the words she had been trying to memorize. Yet I knew the test would have no value if some time did not elapse between her final recital of the lines to herself, and my calling upon her.

She would try to be fair, I was sure, but I knew that almost without her volition she silently was going over those two lines. I must use a subterfuge to make sure of my decision on her memory of them.

I rose abruptly at the end of the quarter hour, and Mary's eyes instantly flew wide open.

"Are you ready?" she asked breathlessly.

I wagged a reproving forefinger at her.

"Gently, gently!" I admonished. "There is something I want you to do first."

"What is it?"

"I want you to read aloud to me your lines in the entire first act," I said. "I'll take another copy and cue you. You've been concentrating on those two lines, and I think you need a little broader outlook."

Made No Protest

Her eyes showed impatience and disappointment, but she made no protest.

"You're the doctor," she said, and I brought up a chair opposite to her, fetched another copy of my first act from my desk, sat down, and began cuing her.

She responded docilely, and for a few minutes the rehearsal of her lines went on. Purposely, I made the exchange rapid, and when I was sure that she was at last absorbed in the dialogue, I spoke abruptly, as she finished reading one of her lines.

"Now, give me those first two lines from memory," I said.

She started as if she had been roweled, and for an instant there was a flash of agonized uncertainty in her eyes, while I felt my own pulses constricting. Then her lips parted, and the two lines came out fluently and perfectly rendered.

As she finished, I was careful to let no sign of my own strong emotion escape me. Instead, I spread my hands in a matter of fact gesture.

Mary's Letter Perfect

"There you are!" I said, with an "I-told-you-so" intonation. "You're letter-perfect as far as those two lines are concerned."

"Oh! Auntie Madge!" she exclaimed. "Are you sure? There wasn't a single mistake?"

"Not one," I told her.

"Then let's get at the next ones," she said feverishly, and I saw that her color was high, and that her eyes were altogether too bright.

"That will be Aunt Katharine's decision," I said firmly.

"You mean you're going to call her now?" she asked, and there was rough impatience in her voice.

For answer, I rose, brought a hand mirror from my dresser and held it up in front of her.

"There's the reason," I told her. "Your color is too high, your eyes aren't right. I wouldn't dare take the responsibility of having you work on just now."

Put Mirror Away

I put the mirror away, taking my time and giving her a chance to pull herself together.

Then I turned back to her and spoke again.

"Please believe me, dearest," I said. "I am as eager as you are to have you forge ahead with these lines. But there's no use being foolhardy about it. You've been a very sick girl, and we must move slowly. It will make things a lot easier for Aunt Katharine and me if you'll recognize your condition and co-operate with us."

There were tears behind the glitter in her eyes now, and she looked at me appealingly.

"I know," she said. "I'll be good. But, do you think there's a chance for me? Two lines don't mean much."

I put my arms around her and kissed her warmly.

"There's every chance for you," I told her, as I turned to the door to fetch Katharine.
